

EPID6001 Application of Epidemiology in Health Care

(2 credits)

Course Coordinator: TBC

Course Description

The course involves a series of topics in applying epidemiology in health care decision making. The principles and techniques for cost-effective analysis and critical appraisal are discussed and elaborated. It is suggested that participant should complete the course Introduction to Epidemiology (EPID5001) in advance.

Learning Outcomes/Objectives

Students are expected to

1. Learn principles and basic techniques for critical appraisal of different types of epidemiological study;
2. Learn principles and basic techniques for application of cost-effective analysis in health care.

Course Schedule

Apr – Jun 2015

Fee

Application Fee: $100

Course Fee: $8,400